Injuries Fatal to Coleman Trucker

Lon Clary, 52, Coleman resident employed as a truck driver by the West Canadian Collieries, died Tuesday morning in the Bellevue hospital where he had been under medical observation since Saturday following an accident.

The mine employee suffered serious back injuries near Bellevue at 9 a.m. Saturday when a 3-ton Dodge truck which he was driving was in a collision with a CPR locomotive. The truck was demolished and the driver was hurled to hospital.

Lon Clary was born in Kent County, England, and came to Coleman's in 1928, obtaining work with the McGillivray Creek Coal and Coke Company. Four months ago he entered the employ of West Canadian Collieries.

Deceased was born at Kent County, England, and at the tender age of six months was brought by his parents to Souris, Man. When a young man he moved to Lancer, Sask., where he married Miss Blanche Huffman in 1918. ## Permanent Highway Association is Planned

A permanent organization with a central executive of seven officers is to be established by the Southern Trans-Canada Highway Association when it culminates its "On to Nelson" caravan with a conference in the British Columbia city next month, according to an official statement made by E. R. McFarland, president of the Lethbridge Chamber of Commerce and in charge of organizing the eastern section of the caravan.

Mr. McFarland explained that the central executive will consist of a general president, a general vice-president, a secretary-treasurer representing the four provinces in the association, and a second vice-president from each of the British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Each of the provinces will have its own provincial organization, and the president of each provincial organization will automatically become the second vice-president representing his province on the central executive of the Southern Trans-Canada Highway Association.

The three other positions will be filled by elections during the association's conference in Nelson on September 10.

Following the "On to Nelson" caravan and conference in Nelson, provincial organizations are to be established in each of the four western provinces.

Thus far the Southern Trans-Canada Highway Association has had only a temporary executive to organize the caravan and make plans for a series of meetings to be held in Nelson when caravans starting from Brandon, Man., and Victoria, B.C., converge there on Sept. 10 in a determined effort to promote the southern route as a Trans-Canada highway. This temporary executive will be replaced by the permanent organization.

Mr. McFarland explained that a meeting in Nelson on August 3 decided on the general structure of the highway association and its central executive and that this plan "seemed to fit most advantageously into our project."

He added that each second vice-president on the central executive may set up his own provincial executive along "any lines he thinks most beneficial and desirable."

Every centre subscribing financially to the Southern Trans-Canada Highway Association and having representation at the Nelson meeting will be entitled to have a director and these provincial presidents, continued Mr. McFarland.

"We felt that all interested centres were most certainly entitled to representation and a voice in the affairs of the association," he stated, explaining it was felt that the central executive of seven was large enough to carry the voice of all to whatever highway commission or government necessary.

He urged that each centre participating in the Southern Trans-Canada Highway Association appoint its director as soon as possible.

South Alberta Mines Swamped With Orders

(Lethbridge Herald)
Domestic coal mines in southern Alberta now are swamped with orders for winter fuel, but they are still struggling with the continuing shortage of experienced miners and this may result in a shortage of coal during the coming winter, The Herald learned in a survey of colliery operators.

Whether a coal famine develops, explained colliery operators, depends entirely on the kind of winter western Canada has. A long and hard winter would inevitably be accompanied by a coal shortage in the west, they maintained.

They attributed the threat of a coal shortage principally to "lagging" production of coal.

Offices of domestic coal mines have been flooded with orders for winter fuel, almost all of the orders coming from points in the four western provinces, and collieries are working full time, the five days weekly permitted by their agreement with the United Mine Workers of America, District 18.

One local operator told The Herald: "The orders we have are so numerous that we have not bothered to add them up."

A particularly heavy demand for coal has come to the Lethbridge field from southeastern Saskatchewan.

General indications are that domestic coal mine workers can expect to work full time until winter strikes, and that they can then count on working through to spring if the winter is a severe one. A mild winter, however, would sharply reduce coal requirements and the demands on collieries.

Typical of the continuing shortage of experienced coal miners is the case of Sulphur. The pailbearers were Wm. McInnis, Philip McNeil, Joe McKenney, Fred McDougall, Archie McDonald and Dan Johnson.

Ottewell-Bendicson

A wedding of interest to the Blairmore, Fernie and Vulcan districts was solemnized at St. Augustine's Anglican church, Lethbridge, at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, August 10, when Constance Bendicson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bendicson, of Fernie and formerly of Vulcan, was united in holy matrimony to Lawrence William Ottewell, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ottewell, of Vulcan. Rev. J. L. Grant read the marriage vows.

Matron of honor was Dorothy Gooder, sister of the groom, while Malcolm Blake, of Blairmore, supported the groom. Stanley Jones, of Lethbridge, gave the bride in marriage.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of white silk jersey with white accessories complimented with a corsage of sweetheart roses. The matron of honor chose a gown of pale yellow with green accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother chose a gown of pastel blue and wore a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's aunt, Mrs. Gertrude Herman, of Fresno, Calif., was also in attendance.

A reception followed immediately at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Gooder, of Lethbridge. The room was prettily decorated in blue and white and a three-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table was flanked by tall white tapers and bouquets of flowers.

Rev. J. L. Grant proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded.

Following a honeymoon at Vulcan, the young couple will reside in Blairmore, where the groom is employed.

Mrs. Mary Walsh Passes on Aug. 19

On Thursday morning, August 19, Mrs. Mary Walsh, beloved wife of James C. Walsh, passed away at her home in Bellevue after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Walsh was born in 1893 at Low Point, Cape Breton, N.S. She married James C. Walsh in that province in 1911. Mr. Walsh entered the armed services in 1914 and served overseas throughout the entire First Great War. On his return from active duty, Mr. and Mrs. Walsh moved to Toronto, Ont., in 1919. From there they moved west to Taylorton, Sask., where they lived from 1920 to 1924. The next six years they lived in Michel, B.C., and then moved to Alberta in 1930, where they took up residence in Passburg, Mr. and Mrs. Walsh moved to Bellevue in 1946 and it was there that Mrs. Walsh succumbed to a long illness. During her long sojourn in the Crows' Nest Pass, Mrs. Walsh won a veritable host of friends by her grand neighborly manner and kindly solicitude for all whom she came in contact.

Funeral took place on August 23 at 10:30 a.m. with service at St. Cyril's church, Bellevue. Requiem High Mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. Arthur Anderson, with Very Rev. Dean Harrington of Blairmore and Rev. L. Sullivan of Coleman present in the sanctuary. A large congregation of sorrowing friends gathered at the church to pay a silent and reverent tribute of sympathy to the Walsh family. Burial took place in Our Lady of Lourdes cemetery, Bellevue. Committal prayers were recited by Father Anderson, assisted by Dean Harrington and Father Sullivan. The pallbearers were Wm. McInnis, Philip McNeil, Joe McKenney, Fred McDougall, Archie McDonald and Dan Johnson.

Surviving are the sorrowing husband, four daughters and four sons. The daughters are Mrs. John Hampton, Michel, B.C., Edna; Mrs. Percy Letcher, Blanche; Mrs. James LaPlaca, Vivian and Mrs. Pete Comin, Pat, all of Bellevue. The son is Charles of Vancouver, B.C.; James of Trail, B.C., and Frank and Tommy, both of Bellevue. Two other children, Joseph and Dollina, died in infancy. Ten grandchildren also survive.

Real Reason

Navy Author Rex Stout was assigned to the presidential yacht, the Mayflower. A short time after he assumed his duties, he was lifted from the enlisted men's ranks and appointed warrant officer. Puzzled cronies could not understand this rapid promotion.

"How did you get it?" asked one, "were you a personal friend of the President?"

"No, it wasn't that," explained Stout. "The officers needed another hand in which I couldn't play with them as an enlisted man, so they promoted me."

University Men Say Egg Grading Easy

ST. PAUL.—University of Minnesota farm school men say a housewife can tell whether high-priced eggs really are grade A. If the egg has a round, high yolk and if the cover of the yolk is strong and has plainly-seen white knots on its sides, the egg is grade A.

If the egg flattens out and runs all over the dish, or has barely-visible white knots on the yolks, farm school experts suggest buying elsewhere.

The latter, they said, may be perfectly all right but they're considerably less than grade A.

BEST OF ALL

I like the treats that mother makes To please a little miss. I like the stories that she tells And I love her goodnight kiss.

I like her greeting every morn When the sun is climbing high. It seems to set the day aright When it could be all wry.

I like to see her in the house When I come in from play; And I love the welcome in her face When I have been away.

But of the many things she does I love by far the best To feel the comfort of her arms And the softness of her breast.

TRAGIC BUT TRUE!

Dr. Alex. Brown, Physician-in-Chief of Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children and Professor of Pediatrics at the University of Toronto, once opened a radio broadcast by telling a little story. We'll quote from Dr. Brown's script—

"As a rule most speakers open their remarks by telling a story. Well, I'm going to open my remarks this evening by telling a story—but I want the type of story which will make you laugh and put you in a good humor to listen to the rest of my talk. It is the story of a little girl who spent many months in Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children.

"The little girl's name was Mary. She was the only child of a doctor who didn't believe in the then new-fangled idea of pasteurization—the heating of milk to destroy disease germs. He was so convinced in his own mind that he was right—that pasteurization was a useless and harmful process—that every day he drove out of the town where he lived to get raw milk from a special herd he had picked out as safe.

Develops TB

"This went on for some time, but one day Mary developed a condition which necessitated a trip to Toronto—to the Hospital for Sick Children. She had bovine tuberculosis—contracted from the herd, which her father thought so healthy and safe.

"Yes, Mary was just another victim of unpasteurized milk—a victim of parental neglect, through ignorance. And her case was not an isolated one. Many little Marys and Johnnies have gone through the same thing—and many of them died as a result of the effects of bovine

MANITOBA INDIANS GO MODERN

NORWAY HOUSE, Man.—Indians at this Northern Manitoba outpost have decided that civilization is not only grand—it's health-building. They've taken to sleeping on air mattresses and are finding it much healthier than lying in a blanket on the hard ground.

Dr. Brown also stated that "we who know the disease possibilities of raw milk and who have watched the beneficial effect of pasteurization laws, firmly believe that no sound argument can be advanced against pasteurization."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

ANOTHER CHANCE

By H. H. CLARKE

NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD Chuck Brewster gloomily watched his beloved grandmother, Widow Brewster, as she weeded the petunias beside the white picket fence that enclosed her gay little yard. She was an energetic little lady for all her gray hair and her years, and her flowers were her hobby.

"You see, Burton," said Chuck disconsolately, "Ronny's grandfather's going to take the car away from him, and Ronny won't be able to go."

"Oh Chuck," she exclaimed, "What ever got into you? You never speed!" She paused and tried to look sternly at him. "It wasn't a speed, because her face was never built for sternness."

"I know," he answered forlornly. "It was all because I was late for the Scout meeting. Mother had our car and Ronny offered to let me use his. I was speeding a bit but—well, go!" Just the fender was smashed and of course I'll pay to have that fixed. If only the old buzzard would give us another chance, or at least give Ronny one. But no! He says he believes in discipline and he holds Ronny responsible. I feel like a perfect heel! Golly, Ronny's my best pal!"

"Another chance!" His grandmother's shining dark eyes regarded him thoughtfully. "That's it," she said slowly. "I'll never forget. Another chance!" She dropped her little trowel and straightened up.

"Chuck," she announced with determination, "I've never set eyes on that old gent, Ronny isn't to blame at all. It just isn't fair. When can I get a bus for Waterdale?"

A few hours later Mrs. Brewster faced the handsome gray-haired grandfather of Chuck's pal, Ronny, in his stately home in the little adjacent town of Waterdale, where he lived all alone with two servants. But all her pleadings for Ronny and Chuck seemed to leave him cold. He was courteous but determined. "The old—the old creature!" thought Mrs. Brewster. "He's as stubborn as—as I am!"

"Listen here," she said desperately. "I want to tell you something—something I've never told to a living soul before. When I was about eleven years old—" she hesitated and caught her breath—"When I was about eleven years old," she began again bravely. "I stole a diamond pin from a classmate's dress on a ship. The porpoises were tiny diamonds and the whole affair fascinated me beyond endurance. I stole it, right out of her muffler!" Her voice shook with emotion. "Hiram was his name—I remember so well. And do you know what he thought when, of course, I was caught wearing it? He lied—he lied to protect me! He said he'd given it to me! Shame and pride wrestled for mastery in Mrs. Brewster's face."

Then she looked the old man firmly in the eyes. "I never forgot it," she went on, "and now I've tried to give everybody another chance at everything—in honor of that old schoolmate whom I never could repay for the second chance he gave me. Also—I never stole again!"

Mrs. Brewster's eyes shone and her face was a beautiful pink. "Didn't anyone ever do you a better service—one that you could never repay?" she demanded. "Every day they don't you see that here's a chance to pass it on—and be generous to someone else?"

She paused and looked hopefully at the old gentleman. "Oh," she thought with alarm, "whatever's the matter with him? He looks stunned. I must have shocked him dreadfully! I hope he doesn't think now that Chuck came from a family of thieves. It would be just like him!"

But the old gentleman recovered himself quickly. "All right," he said smiling as though it didn't really matter much after all. "I'll forgive Ronny and Chuck. I won't take the car away from Ronny. Is that what you want?" He looked at her so searchingly that Mrs. Brewster thought the man must be off his head, even though it was such a handsome old head. However, she smiled and thanked him warmly.

HONORING THOSE WHO MADE THE SUPREME SACRIFICE

Many communities across the prairies hold memorial services in memory of gallant young men and women who made the supreme sacrifice that we may enjoy the freedom that is ours in Canada today. These communities are to be commended for their spirit and effort in holding these services annually. The above scene was where several hundred people joined with the Craik branch of the Canadian Legion holding a memorial service at Craik, Sask. The service was preceded by a parade of ex-servicemen and several organizations led by the Moose Jaw Legion band. The cenotaph was flanked by overwreathing with beautiful wreaths placed by the different organizations in the district.

The cenotaph, erected after World War I, is located at an intersection on the main street, and names of men of Craik and district of both wars are inscribed. At night it is illuminated by lights on each corner of the decorative fence that surround the memorial, and makes a very impressive scene from the platform of the station at the head of the street.

COLLECTION OF TOTEM POLES IS FOR SALE

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. — A valuable collection of totem poles in the museum of Northern British Columbia here is to be sold by the owner, 52-year-old George Cunningham.

The exquisitely carved figures have been on loan to the museum for many years. Announcement that they would be sold, probably to the highest bidder, surprised museum officials.

"I promised the two native artists that I would never commercialize on it," he said in an interview. "But they are dead now so I think the promise has been fulfilled. I could use the money, too."

Art Now Extinct The pieces are fine examples of an art that once flourished in the Queen Charlotte Islands and is now virtually extinct.

"The Haida Indians used to spend their winters carving totem poles into totem poles and other figures," he said. "There are some fine artists among them, but two were outstanding."

These were Chief Charlie Edenshaw of Massett who died in 1919 and Lo Chapman, a lame slave boy captured by the Haidas from a tribe around Bella Bella.

"At times at our store at Port Eslington we had literally tons of totem poles for sale. I kept only the best. I have always considered it interesting that the finest work came from a chief and a humble slave boy."

The chief held himself above recognizing the poor alien and was never known to speak to him. Great as his kinship as artists should have been, it was not great enough to overcome the Haida chief's pride."

VANCOUVER — B.C. is the only province in Canada attracting fewer tourists this season than last year. From the Atlantic to the foothills of the Rockies, tourist travel in Canada is reaching an all-time high. But in B.C., tourist officials report a 1.7 per cent drop from 1947 figures.

They blame floods which devastated the province early in June.

Leduc-Woodhead for first time in its 18-month history passed the 20,000-barrel level. Conservation board reports deliveries of 20,964 barrels daily including 9,101 barrels from Wild Atlantic well and 11,863 barrels from 100 other wells operating at restricted rates. Turner Valley oil ran 10,796 barrels plus an additional 1,014 barrels of natural gasoline.

Lloydminster Up Lloydminster production was estimated at 2,184 barrels daily from Alberta wells and 2,753 barrels from Saskatchewan. Smaller Alberta pools were estimated at 2,162 barrels daily.

Frairies rolled up an oil production gain of 1,444,054 barrels with the sixth month total at 4,843,962 barrels. Alberta produced 4,499,897 barrels. Saskatchewan 374,965 barrels. With continued growth expected the final half-year production should exceed six million barrels and the 1948 total over 11 million barrels for a new record compared to 7,344,175 barrels for 1947.

1950 Games Awarded To N.Z.

LONDON. — The 1950 British Empire games were awarded to New Zealand.

The committee to decide the venue of the commonwealth sports meet voted down Canada's bid, 12-2, to hold the games at Toronto. Bermuda was Canada's only supporter.

Prof. Nelson Hart of London, Ont., general manager of the Canadian Olympic team, represented Canada at the meeting.

He thought the Toronto offer with of $50,000 guarantee was best but the committee thought it preferable the games go to the southern hemisphere.

After the meeting Prof. Hart said: "The delegates wanted to spread the games around. We had it before—in 1930 at Hamilton, Ont. — and this will be New Zealand's first time." The games will be held in January, 1950.

Board of Trade

The next regular meeting of Blair-more Board of Trade will be held in the Main School on Thursday of next week, Sept. 2, at 8 p.m.

It is expected to have speakers on hand to give further information on the operation of the Dominion act to relieve the housing shortage. It is also expected that the committee set up to investigate Blairmore needs in this pressing problem will be able to give their report.

School Opens Sept. 1

We will soon hear the chime of the old school bell again as school opens on September 1. Blairmore has completed its teaching staff and will now be prepared to start another year of hard work.

The rooms on the upper floor have been repaired and will be ready for the children to take their places on Wednesday, but the two lower grades will not commence classes until Tuesday, Sept. 7, due to the repairing of this portion of the school not being fully completed following damage by fire in the closing days of school.

Ben Swankey Writes

Edmonton, Aug. 24, 1948.

The Editor, Sir:

May I, through the columns of your paper, take this opportunity to thank all those who gave so generously of their time, money and effort in my election campaign in Pincher Creek-Crows' Nest. We fought a good battle but the forces against us were too strong. Although we did not succeed in a splendid campaign, one that will bear fruit in the months to come.

The Social Credit candidate was elected on a minority vote. His election was made possible only because of a split in the labor and progressive vote; a split caused by the anti-unity policies of the leadership of the CCF. In my radio broadcasts, in speeches at public meetings, and in election statements, I continually pointed out that in contesting Pincher-Creek, the CCF leadership would only increase the chances of a Social Credit victory. Events have proven this estimation to be correct. In splitting the labor vote, in joining with labor-bat-ing employers in a vicious red-bat-ing campaign, the CCF leadership betrayed the best interests of labor and the people.

The election of the Social Credit candidate was accompanied by the most flagrant irregularities and violations of the Elections Act. In Pincher Creek an election official voted for her husband who was not at the poll.
In Hillcrest, election officials went to a private home to take the vote of two people. A few days before election day, road construction workers suddenly had their names transferred from the Macleod constituency to Pincher Creek-Crows' Nest. Such irregularities undoubtedly helped considerably to boost the Social Credit vote.

Now that Social Credit is again in the saddle we may expect still further attacks on labor along the lines of the anti-labor Bill 91. The trade unions will be attacked from without by the government and employers, and from within by the agents of the employers, some of whom support Bill 91, and by others, some of whom already are endeavouring to expel militants from unions on the grounds of "combating Communism." This is the technique of Hitler.

The very existence of the trade union movement is at stake today. Labor must unite its ranks, keep its unions strong and active, and repudiate all those who play the bosses' game of trying to split labor on the false issue of Communism.

The forces of reaction have won a battle, but the war for social security for all our people goes on; this struggle the people will win.

Yours truly,
BEN SWANKEY.

Firebosses Seek New Agreement

The scale committee of the Western Canada Firebosses' Association held a meeting at the Labor Temple, Calgary, last Saturday night to draw up a new tentative agreement, since the present working agreement with the coal mine operators terminates Sept. 30.

In the new agreement, the fireboss-es are seeking for a premium for night shift duty, and for an additional week annual vacation. They now have a two-week annual vacation.

The firebosses, whose work it is to enforce the provincial mines act, and who also direct the safe methods of mining coal, are at present putting on a safety drive in the mining industry.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Peronak motored to Creston over the week end.

a perfect beast!

What to do for FAINTING

FAINTING is a condition due to sudden failure of the action of the heart, which may be caused by fatigue, want of food, or a close or crowded room; or by fright, dread, sudden bad news, or by the sudden relief from fear or anxiety after prolonged suspense.

THE SIGNS ARE: The patient turns giddy and falls; the face is pale; the pulse is rapid and weak, or almost imperceptible; the breathing is quick, sighing and irregular, and the skin becomes dry and clammy.

TREATMENT:

1. Undo all clothing about the neck, chest and waist.
2. Ensure an abundance of fresh air; open windows and doors; keep back crowd; remove from harmful gasses or impure atmosphere.
3. Sprinkle the face with hot and cold water alternately, and apply warmth to the pit of the stomach and over the heart; vigorous friction of the limbs upwards has a stimulating effect. Smelling salts may be held to the nose.
4. If bleeding has been the cause of the condition, guard against its recurrence. The wound will not bleed to any marked extent while the action of the heart is feeble. The wound must be carefully watched to be sure that bleeding does not recur when the patient begins to regain consciousness and the heart's action improves; if there is no wound look for signs of hemorrhage from an internal organ.
5. If want of nourishment has been the cause of the condition give food sparingly.
6. Give no food or fluids whatever by the mouth while the patient is insensible.

Rising Living Costs

FOR SOME TIME THERE HAS BEEN widespread concern over the steady increase in the cost of living in Canada. It is true that prices have risen alarmingly, and that in spite of general increases in incomes, it has become very difficult for many citizens to meet the present costs of food and other necessities. It was expected that prices would rise after the war and Canadians have suffered considerably less in this respect than have the people of most other countries. Where no economic controls were enforced during the war or in the years following it, prices and wages rose to fantastic levels, but even in those countries where these factors were regulated, it has not been possible to avoid the trend to inflation, as controls were gradually removed.

Dollar Is Worth More In Canada

Recently figures were issued comparing the cost of living in Canada to that of the United States, our nearest neighbor, and a country whose economy is, in many ways, closely related to our own. These figures were calculated as nearly as possible on the same basis and they show that, on the basis of their value in 1939, the Canadian dollar is today worth more than the American dollar, and that Canadian consumers are paying less for most commodities than the Americans at this time. Based on values in the United States on May 15 of this year, it was shown that the American dollar is, in general, worth 60 cents, compared to its value in 1939, while the food dollar is worth only 47 cents and the clothing dollar 51 cents.

Greater Rise Is Indicated

On June 1st of this year, the Canadian dollar was worth 65 cents in general, as compared to its value in 1939, while the food dollar was worth 51 cents and the clothing dollar 57 cents. It was also shown that, on May 15th, the cost of living index in the United States was 172.9 while in Canada on June 1st it was 153.1. Prices have risen to some extent in both countries since these figures were compiled, but economists agree that the rise has been more rapid in the United States than in Canada. While it does not help us to know that the American people are facing more difficulties than ourselves in the matter of living costs, it does bring to our attention the fact that the trend is general, and that while the situation here is far from encouraging, it could be much more serious.

Uranium, Rare Metal, Discovered In British Columbia

VANCOUVER. — Uranium, rare metal used in making atomic bombs, has been found in British Columbia, near Gun Lake in the Bridge River district about 15 miles north of the gold mine town of Princeton.

The find was reported in Vancouver by the young prospector who discovered it—Ernest Johnson, 35. It was confirmed officially in Victoria by Dr. J. F. Walker, B.C.'s deputy minister of mines.

"It's uranium, all right," Dr. Walker told The Vancouver Daily Province. "It's the first authentic discovery in B.C. of which we have definite information."

"Our tests of ore samples sent us by Johnson are not finished yet. We don't know how much uranium exists there, and we haven't yet identified the mineral in the samples. We do know, however, that the mineral is radio-active, and that it contains uranium."

U.S. POPULATION TAKES JUMP TO 145 MILLION

WASHINGTON.—Boom growth on the Pacific coast led the United States to an estimated population total of 145,416,000 in 1940, a rise of 8.9 per cent. since the 1940 census. The Census Bureau figured the combined population of California, Oregon and Washington rose by 3,981,690 or 40.9 per cent. to a total of 13,714,000.

Pineapples weighing 20 pounds are common in the New Hebrides.

Butcher's Credit — Have A T-Bone Steak; Eighteen Months To Pay

HOLDREGE, Neb. — A Holdrege meat market operator posted this sign: "Use your money. Have a T-bone steak, one-third down, 18 months to pay." Herb Bierhaus said he put up the sign on his shop in an effort to get back business which had dropped off sharply because of resistance to high meat prices.

CAN PRAIRIE FARMERS GET ALONG WITHOUT HORSES?

By T. R. MELVILLE-NESS
Central Press Canadian

FOR quite a few years now they've been saying that the horse is finished in the west. Especially since the war ended, farms have been mechanized at a tremendous rate, and the trend continues. Thousands of farms that used to use horses for all field work have switched to power farming, and big barns that used to be filled with horses are either falling apart, or else they are being used to house expensive power machinery.

But supporters of the horse say that most farmers cannot get along without at least one general purpose team, especially in winter. A team of horses, they say, will do chores on mixed farms at far less cost than any other method. They also point out that a horse will get to town when the roads are snowed in, at a time when a car or truck couldn't budge.

Last winter was a case in point. Any farmer who still had a few horses during the months of heavy snowfall early in 1945 had plenty of reason to be glad he had them. And this year's Class "A" western fair circuit proved that there's still a lively interest in the horse. There were five exhibitions, at Brandon, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Regina, and at each one there were good displays of heavy horses. There was also a fair interest in these displays on the part of farmers who had long since switched to power farming.

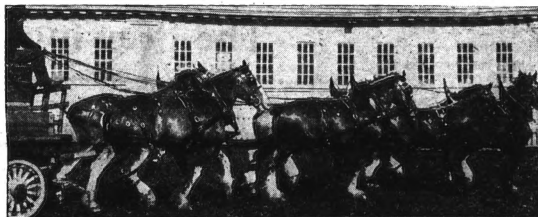

Classes for heavy horse teams were specially popular at the fairs. In all cases, ringades were crowded when heavy four and six-horse outfits were scheduled to appear. In spite of a lapse in interest on the part of horse breeders, a few ardent horse-lovers have stayed in the business, and they managed to put on a good show. Judged by any standard, the heavy horse classes were good, and some outstanding individuals were shown.

The greatest spectacle of all, the rodeo, was, if anything, better than ever before at Western exhibitions. While mechanization spreads through the farming and ranching community, there are still plenty of tough cowboys to ride the meanest horse that ever left the chute.

If the public thought the ranching business had abandoned the horse in favor of the airplane or the jeep, they had an eye-opener at the western rodeos of the west this year. The Calgary Stampede and the Regina Exhibition, rodeo events were, if anything, better than ever this year. There were more chuck wagon outfits competing in the most exciting western event of all, chuck wagon racing. Bronk riding, with and without saddle, had more entries

While the work horse has become something of a rarity on many Saskatchewan farms, thousands of people flock to see the heavy horse classes at Western exhibitions. Experts predict that eventually farmers will decide that a team of general purpose horses on the farm is a great asset, and there will be a return to horses as a few years' time. Here is the Clydesdale team, owned by J. F. Dunham of Fairlight, Sask., winner of four championships on the Western Class A circuit.

A few breeders of heavy horses still manage to stage a show that is watched by thousands of people at fairs in the prairie provinces. Here is an unbeaten champion of the western circuit, Riverbend Monksdale, Percheron stallion owned by Jonathan Fox of Lloydminster, Sask. This great horse was reserve grand champion stallion of the breed at the Toronto Royal show last year.

THE TILLERS

Helicopters Used In Fight Against Pests

CALGARY.—Helicopters have been used to spray the area between Bassett, Alta., and Field, B.C., with DDT and Dieldrin, in an effort to kill lodgepole pine needle miner. Three pilots of 20 acres each were treated, using different spray deliveries in each section.

The pests have been in outbreak in the Banff Park area since 1942 and first injury to the trees was noted at that time. They are tiny moths about a quarter of an inch in length and very narrow, with silver-grey wings. Larvae, when hatched, begin to mine the needles of pine trees during July and August. During the winter they remain dormant inside the needles, resuming feeding in the spring.

Although the pests will not kill the trees in one year, the present outbreak has reached a serious stage. In 1946 it was hoped that natural factors might stop some of the damage but this year, larvae mortality dropped to about 20 per cent., and permanent injury is reported to trees in the Lake Louise area.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

Hubby: "I guess you're pretty mad because I came home with this black eye last night."
Wife: "Not at all. When you came home you didn't have that black eye."

Mr. Jones: I think there should only be one head to a family.

Mr. Smith: Brother, you said a monthful. I just paid for hats for my four daughters.

An old woman married a man even older than herself. One day she met the rector, who inquired why she had married again, and if she had now given up her occupation of washing.
"Oh, no sir," she said, pointing to her husband, who was wheeling a barrow a few paces away. "If I hadn't married 'o I'd 'ad 'a bough a donkey."

Jones: That pawnbroker raised his hat to your wife. Does he know her?"

Brown: "I presume he feels that he does, he has seen his picture so often inside the case of my watch."

Bill Jones called in a plumber to fix an upstairs faucet and as he and his wife were coming downstairs they met the plumber coming up. Bill said:

"Before I go downstairs I would like to acquaint you with the name of the plumber who called in to fix my faucet."
The plumber politely removed his hat and murmured:

"Pleased to meet you ma'am."

Boas: "You want a raise? Why didn't you live within your means?"
Employee: "I do, sir, but you don't realize how I am crowded for space."

A baker was delivering bread in the avenue. A woman hurrying home from her shopping stopped him.

"Have you left me any bread?"

"Oh, yes, madam."

"Is it today's?"

"Certainly, madam."

"Well, yesterday wasn't."

Political Agitator: "I'm pleased to see such a dense crowd here tonight."

Voice from the crowd: "Don't be too pleased. We ain't all dense."

A pessimist says that after the next war, there will be a slight pause for nation identification.

Do you feel that being prompt requires too much effort? If so, you are overlooking the fact that promptness pays worthwhile dividends in terms of success and popularity.

All the people with whom you may have relationships in your job—co-workers, customers, employer—will think you are more efficient and dependable if you keep appointments on time. And their good opinion of you can help you get ahead.

Even in off-work hours, promptness can build happier relationships with family and friends. For when you are on time it shows that you are considerate of other people and that you value their time.

How can you become prompt? It's easy! All you have to do is to say to yourself: From now on I'm going to be on time all the time with everybody!

Why not resolve today that you will see how much good will you can build in this simple way?

Life Insurance Companies are justly proud of their record in making prompt payments to beneficiaries and policyholders. It may surprise you to know that such payments in Canada approximate a half million dollars every day.

The Best banking system

CANADA has a banking system which, for efficiency and dependability, is unsurpassed in the world. Competitive, flexible, adaptable to the changing needs of the country, it serves Canada's producers, her industries, her traders—and it serves your personal needs, too.

No customer has to fear the privacy of his regular banking transactions. This privacy is completely free of political pressures or considerations—it is rooted in Canadian banking practice and tradition.

Contrast this Canadian way with conditions in lands where freedom is denied—where every bank is a political tool, every Banker a State official! State monopoly of banking, proposed by Socialists here, would fasten the Marxist foreign pattern on you.
